A MESSAGE FROM YOUR ADMINISTRATOR

Aloha, As we move further into 2025, we are facing increasing uncertainty about the fate of Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid benefit funding. The federal atmosphere is messy at best and predatory at worst.

Thousands of our Retirees Unit members rely on these benefits to pay bills, housing, food, and basic living costs.

The AFSCME Retirees Unit and HGEA are fighting hard to maintain our benefits. We need to stop anti-retiree extremists and billionaires from making devastating budget cuts to Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid. They want to slash vital funding that retirees rely on to give trillions in tax breaks to billionaires.

Dial 1-866-685-7833 to speak to your representative.

FESTIVAL CELEBRATES FELLOWSHIP AND LOCAL LABOR LEADER BY VIVIAN MARK

Japanese laborers were being paid less than others and this sparked his desire to become an advocate and activist.

Fred became one of the major leaders fighting for higher wages of plantation workers as president of The Higher Wage Association. On May 8, 1908, workers went on strike at the Aiea Plantation. As planned, momentum picked up and spread to other plantations, disrupting sugarcane processing in the area. Many took the side of the plantation owners and the strike would eventually end without settlement on Aug. 5, 1908.

Fred was one of the major negotiators and it was an uphill battle trying to fight for better wages. He would eventually succeed in securing a better contract with the Hawaii Sugar Planters Association November 1909.

Unfortunately, the strike would land Fred in legal trouble in 1910 when the Supreme Court ruling that he, along with three other labor leaders, were guilty of "conspiring to hinder plantation operations." The charge came with a fine of $300 and a three-month prison sentence.

After serving his jail term, Fred was determined to get involved with the newspaper business after seeing how public opinion was swayed to the side of HSPA by some of the largest newspaper companies at the time of the strike. His goal was to create a publication that provided a more balanced view.

On Dec. 7, 1912, the first edition of Hawaii Hochi rolled off the press and Fred became the owner of a new Japanese Language newspaper located on Mauna Kea and Pauahi Street. He passed away on Feb. 17, 1953, after a short illness, but his newspaper would continue until Dec. 7, 2023.

Since 1993, Waimea has sponsored the Cherry Blossom Heritage Festival. Inspired by the Japanese tradition of gathering to view the sakura in full bloom while enjoying food, drink and music, the festival has grown in size and scale over the years. I'm pleased that we've also established a tradition of welcoming the HGEA retirees to this festival each year.

It may not be common knowledge, but this festival has a history with the labor movement. Everything started with three Formosan cherry trees planted in honor of Fred Makino at Church Row park by his widow, Michie Okaumura Makino, on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Fred was the owner and founder of Hawaii Hochi, a Japanese language newspaper. Born on Aug. 27, 1877, in Yokohama, Japan, he was the third son of a British merchant and grew up bilingual in English and Japanese. In April 1899, he was sent to help their oldest brother at his general store in Naalehu called "Makino Camp." Fred would eventually move on to open Makino Drug Company in Honolulu on the corner of Nuuanu Avenue and Hotel Street in 1901.

While living in Hawaii, Fred would often serve as a consultant to the Japanese laborers even though he was not allowed to practice law due to his immigrant status. He learned that
